

CAST Internships in Washington, D.C.

Summer 2020

The College of Applied Science and Technology is continuing the scholarship program to encourage professional practice opportunities for high achieving students who wish to complete their internship in Washington, D.C.

Summer 2020 internships are available to qualified students who will be selected from those who apply by the posted deadline. Those who are selected from the pre-screening application and interview process will then submit formal applications for the internship to one of the available offices. Opportunities for students exist within a variety of federal executive, legislative, and judicial offices and include subject-specific options for nearly all majors in CAST. However, there is no guarantee that a student selected for scholarship funding will actually be selected by an agency or legislative office in Washington, DC. If the student is not accepted for a summer internship by a recognized agency or legislative office, no financial support will be offered.

This is an excellent opportunity for students who will be exposed to fast-paced, exciting, and challenging experiences as interns in Washington, D.C. The D.C. professional practice combines observation with participation to provide a comprehensive, meaningful experience for the student. CAST is pleased to offer financial support to offset the cost of housing.

Who is Eligible?

- Undergraduate students with majors in CAST who have earned a minimum of 75 semester hours by the end of the current semester with a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.25.
- Full-time students in CAST graduate programs who have earned a minimum of 16 semester hours with a minimum grade point average of 3.50.

Dates of the Internship

Students will likely begin the professional practice in mid-May and conclude the internship by the first week of August. Exceptions may occur and must be approved by the student's professional practice coordinator in advance.

Examples of DC Agencies/Opportunities

White House, National Archives, Department of State, Homeland Security, NIH, USDA, DOJ, DOT, FEMA, HHS, FDA, SEC, and hundreds more encompassing all disciplines and majors.

Supervision

The professional practice will be coordinated by the home department of the student. A university supervisor will provide guidance for the individual assignments and reporting that is required. A site supervisor will provide day-today oversight of the experience as well as midterm and final evaluation of the student.

Required Tasks

All interns are required to complete the tasks decided by the departmental professional practice coordinator and the site supervisor. In addition, each intern is required to complete four professional development activities of their own choosing during their time in Washington, D.C. These are events that are outside of their typical day-to-day work activities and might include conferences, lectures, coffee with a superior, etc. There is some flexibility with these activities, and CAST can work with the intern to determine what qualifies.

Upon completion of the internship, each Washington, DC intern will be required to submit five or more digital photographs that portray the experience of the student during the internship and in Washington, DC. The images will be used to illustrate the significance of the scholarship program and to market the program to future prospective interns. The intern will also be required to complete a post-internship survey to provide CAST with feedback about their experience.

Each intern will also be required to write a report regarding their time in Washington, D.C. This report will be due the Friday before classes start for the fall 2020 semester, and should be roughly 1000 words. The paper should be submitted to the College of Applied Science and Technology.

Failure to comply with the required tasks may result in loss of the scholarship. The intern would need to pay back any spent money from the scholarship.

Scholarship

If the selected student(s) successfully obtains a federal executive, legislative, or judicial professional practice assignment for Summer 2020, the College of Applied Science and Technology supports the cost of housing during the internship.

Initial Screening Application

Interested students must complete and submit the screening application to be considered for this unique professional practice opportunity. Applicants must also submit a cover letter and a current professional resume that includes all academic and professional work activities since (but not including) high school graduation.

The completed application and the resume are due on or before Thursday, October 31, 2019. Interns under consideration will be invited to interview during the month of November, with selections being announced prior to winter break.
